Sheriff Champagne issued the following statement upon being informed about the plea agreement:

Today, three former St. Charles Parish Sheriff's Office employees plead guilty to felony charges resulting from a betrayal of the trust of taxpayers and their co-workers. Over the last year, I have declined to comment publicly regarding any of the facts of the extensive ongoing investigation so that our dedicated detectives could put together a case that left the defendants with no choice but to plead guilty.

This agency has taken affirmative steps to move forward and continues to work to establish internal checks and balances that will ensure that something like this never happens again.

I thank District Attorney Joel Chaisson and his staff, as well as our detectives, for their work in this unpleasant task of investigating and prosecuting formerly trusted co-workers.
